

PFF Fellow Profile: Dan Melton

Academic background prior to entering doctoral studies:

- Bachelor of Art in Political Science and Economics, with distinction
- Masters in Public Administration, emphasis in Economics

Degree program / disciplines:

- I-PhD in Economics and Public Administration

Teaching Interests:

Money and Monetary Policy; Institutional Economics; Economics of Sexual Orientation/Discrimination; Not-for-Profits and Technology

Research Interests:

Creative Economy; Internet money; Economic impact of the Gay and Lesbian community; Internet use among not-for-profits; public policy in urban centers

Career Aspirations:

Researcher in above fields; Professor

PFF Expectations:

Gain teaching experience in the university setting; preliminary research and reading in my fields; sort out potential dissertation topic; visit with other institutions; and attend conferences in chosen fields.

Cluster Institution Preferences:

1. University of Massachusetts-Amherst
2. University of California-Riverside
3. Washington University
4. American University